

Luxury Ahoy

After a few years of pandemic-fuelled delays, the Jumeirah Marsa Al Arab is finally set to open within the next several months. It will join the wave-shaped Jumeirah Beach Hotel and sail-shaped Jumeirah Burj Al Arab, to become the crown jewel in Jumeirah Hotels & Resort's trilogy of oceanic-inspired luxury hotels on Dubai's golden sands. Designed by award-winning architect Shaun Killa, it resembles a futuristic superyacht. Killa's company has gained a reputation for creating innovative buildings that "design the future", with iconic structures including Dubai's Museum of the Future and Bahrain's World Trade Centre in its portfolio. Killa Design's forthcoming projects include Saudi Arabia's Shebara Resort and Leyja: Wellness Hotel, the Maldives' Zamani Islands, Dubai's Sinuoso, India's Namaste W Hotel, and Abu Dhabi's Science Museum. The Jumeirah Marsa Al Arab will encompass 386 rooms and suites, 82 residences, an 82-berth superyacht marina, five pools, 10 restaurants, nine bars, and a 3,500 sqm spa, all equipped with ultra-modern amenities.
